Convention of Mule Spinners.

the National Mule Spinners' semi-annual convention was held in Puritan Hall this forenoon. A long discussion took place on the report of local treasurers and the opportunities for levying assessments. It was stated that there were $60,000 in the local treasuries and it was voted to assess each member of the convention 60 cents per week which should, it was estimated, bring in $1,000 per week. The New Bedford, Fall River and Dover (N. H.) unions were givbehalf of the strikers and it was voted to put the $60,000 in the national treasury, thereby insuring a fund to continue the fight against the mill owners indefinitely. It was decided if the strikes continue three weeks longer to raise the assessment to $1 per week for each union spinner and to place the strikes in the hands of the national union which should give every striker a benefit of $3 per weeek.

Strike Sympathizers Discharged.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Sept. 20 .- Since

Saturday the Missouri Pacific is said to have discharged fourteen firemen and six engineers at this end of the line, and eight or ten firemen at Van Buren, on the charge of being implicated in the recent strike, or expressing sympathy with it. There are said to be twenty-five more names on the list of men to be discharged. The majority of these men refused to go on strike, but some of them casually expressed sympathy with the strikers, and for this reason are being decapitated. The railroad men are very much exercised over the action of the company, and it is stated on good authority that the brotherhoods of Locomotive

Firemen and Locomotive Engineers have issued an ultimatum to the effect that unless the company reinstates the men thus

HULTZ'S SLAYER SET FREE BY A VINCENNES JURY YESTERDAY.

Wabash Manufacturers at the Mercy of a Gas Company That Can Pay 40 Per Cent. Dividends.

Special to the Indianapolis Journal. VINCENNES, Ind., Sept. 20.-The Willis murder trial ended to-night at 9 o'clock, when the jury returned a verdict acquitting the defendant. The case has been on trial for two weeks in the Knox Circuit Court, Judge Shaw presiding. Lemuel H. Willis, ex-sheriff of Sullivan county, was on trial for killing ex-Prosecutor William C. Hultz, of Sullivan, the day before last Christmas. Hultz had tampered with Mrs. Willis and destroyed the ex-sheriff's home. Willis obtained a divorce and sued Hultz for $25,000 damages. The calamity, it is claimed, temporarily unbalanced Willis's mind, and he started out to kill his enemy. Willis disguised himself with fierce-looking whiskers, gum boots and tattered overcoat, and, meeting attorney Hultz on the streets of Sullivan early Sunday morning, emptied both barrels of his gun into Hultz's body, killing him instantly. Willis threw his disguise, with the shotgun, in a pond, but his arrest followed, and when he was arraigned he pleaded insanity in mitigation. The trial for two weeks has been warmly contested. Nine physicians were placed on the stand, all of whom testified that defendant was insane when he killed his victim. At the close of the testimony John L. Goodman opened the argument for the State, and after four hours' speech the defense notified the court that they would rest the case without argument, and at 5 o'clock this evening Judge Shaw charged the jury at great length on the question of insanity. On the first ballot to-night the jury was unanimous for acquittal, and at 9 o'clock reported to the court. It was a stirring time, and the defendant was much affected as he left his seat to thank the jury.

A ROBBING GAS MONOPOLY. Wabash Consumers Find the Local Company Wants the Earth

Special to the Indianapolis Journal. WABASH, Ind., Sept. 20.-The Wabash Natural Gas Company has served notice on all manufacturers of this city using gas for fuel that, beginning Oct. 1, the rate will be advanced from 5 cents to 71/2 cents per thousand feet. The notice has created the most intense feeling among manufacturers and other classes of citizens. The company was organized six years ago by R. K. Syfers, A. B. Gates and Hewitt H. Howland, of Indianapolis, and M. S. Howe, the present superintendent, of Jamestown, N. Y. There was an attempt to organize a citizens' company, and the Indianapolis capitalists, alarmed at the prospect of competition, sold out. The Wabash investors are receiving 40 per cent. per arnum on the amount they have paid in. The indignant manufacturers held a meeting last night and all agreed to discontinue the use of gas as fuel and to buy coal or oil and introduce the old methods of generating steam. An effort will be made to induce the Chicago Pipe Line Company to build a line in from the Converse territory, and it was suggested last night hat an effort be made to secure a forfelture of the company's franchise, MEDIUM WARDELL'S PLIGHT. Now Ready to Expose All Spiritualism If Let Off.

Special to the Indianapolis Journal. BLUFFTON, Ind., Sept. 20.-Sheriff Huffman and W. L. Royce returned to-day from Lafayette, having as their prisoner H. R. Wardell, the medium who was exposed here last Saturday night. The charge on which he was arrested was fraud. His arrest caused a great stir among the local Spiritualists, who seem to want him to leave town as soon as possible. He has agreed, if released, to expose the so-called spiritualism and do all the tricks practiced by those of his class. In conversation he laughs at those who have been duped by his medium tricks during the past twenty years, and holds letters of recommendation from those high in spiritualism. His case will come up to-morrow.

CASE OF HOEMOPHILIA.

Third Son in a Family to Bleed to Death from a Scratch. Special to the Indianapolis Journal

MARTINSVILLE, Ind., Sept. 20,-Charles Thomas, nine-year-old son of Albert Thomas, bled to death this evening from a small scratch on his hand. This is the third son in the Thomas family that has bled to death. The peculiar disease is known as philia. The daughters, of whom there are three in the family, are not afflicted. It is a peculiarity of the disease that it is transmitted to sons without interruption. Mrs. Thomas's three brothers died in a similar manner.

REPUBLICAN CAMPAIGN.

Remarkable Turnout at New Albany to Hear Fairbanks.

Special to the Indianapolis Journal. NEW ALBANY, Ind., Sept. 20.-The largest audience in the New Albany Opera House to-night listened to Hon. Charles W. Fairbanks, of Indianapolis. Before Mr. Fairbanks was introduced the house held all the managers could permit to crowd in, and after that hundreds were turned away. It was the largest thing in the way of political meeting, without a rally or anything to advertise it, this town ever had, Mr. Fairbanks was greeted with a series of cheers when he was introduced, and for an hour and forty-five minutes he pounded his arguments into the perception of many Democrats in a way that promises well for a stampede toward Republicanism here.

Getting in Line at Elwood.

Special to the Indianapolis Journal. ELWOOD, Ind., Sept. 20.-The Republicans of this city have begun to take the initiative steps toward the coming campaign and have selected as township chairman of the Republican central committee E. E. Fornshell, editor of the Daily Call-Leader. The campaign will be opened in this city by Hon. John L. Griffiths, of Indianapolis, on the evening of Sept. 27. will be followed by Hon. Patrick McCall. of Washington, D. C., who appears a week later. The Republicans are making preparations to send a rousing delegation to Indianapolis to attend the McKinley meeting next week.

R. J. Tracewell's Campaign.

Special to the Indianapolis Journal. JEFFERSONVILLE, Ind., Sept. 20 .- Hon. R. G. Tracewell, the Republican candidate for Congress, spoke to-night at Charles town, this being the last time he will speak in the county during the canvass. He will not have time to make more than three speeches in each county in the district. At the meeting last night in Jeffersonville the exp. Mations of the leaders were more than realized. Mr. Tracewell and Col. Frank Posey both spoke. The enthusiasm could not be restrained, and found vent in wild cheers. A large crowd left to attend the meeting at Charlestown.

Gen. Hanter Heard Shockney. special to the Indianapolis Journay,

MITCHELL, Ind., Sept. 20 .- The campaign was opened here this afternoon by Hon. Theodore Shockney in a ringing speech. College Hall was filled, some who were formerly of the Democratic faith being present. For two hours the speaker held the complete attention of his audience. Gen. Morton C. Hunter, of Bloomington, was present, and at the close of Mr. Shockney's address an impromptu reception was held, in which all were given an opportunity to grasp the General's hand, > EVANS DREW HIS KNIFE. Bloodshed Narrowly Averted in the Brookville Court Room.

Special to the Indianapolis Journal. BROOKVILLE, Ind., Sept. 20.-The famous libel case from Union county, in which the proprietors of the Liberty Review are defendants and Miss Vernie Johnson is plaintiff, began here this morning on a change of venue. The case is being bitterly fought. This afternoon, while Albert Anness, one of the defendants, was being cross-examined by Thomas D. Evans, one of the attorneys for the plaintiff, Evans called Anness a liar, and Anness rose and made at Evans, declaring he would take from no one, not even in a court room. Evans drew his knife and Judge Swift ordered the sheriff to take care of them, and he quickly got between the two men. The complainant alleges the Review charged her and a prominent business man of Liberty with having improper re-lations. The defendants pleaded justification as a defense. The case will probably take all week. L. H. Stanford, George W. Pigman, Albert Davis, and T. W. Connaway, of Liberty, represent the defendants, while Thomas D. Evans, of Liberty, Flore & Broaddus and S. S. Harrell, of Brookville, appear for the plaintiff. The plaintiff sues for $3,000. She is seventeen years old, and has stood high in society previous to the time the article was published, last

New Railroad Scheme.

Special to the Indianapolis Journal. MUNCIE, Ind., Sept. 20.-Another railroad project is on tap here and it will most likely develop a line from Muncie to New Corner, a distance of twelve miles. The rolling stock of the old Muncie street railway will be used, the propelling power being steam motors. Box, flat and stock cars will be built, and the track will be new and of the standard guage. Emmet Smith, of the Delaware County Bank, F. G. Brownell, William Watson, County Treasurer Mark Powers, and other reputable men are pushing the scheme. This on the line of the much-talked-of line from Hagerstown to Marion to make an air line from Chicago to Cincinnati. There is much enthusiasm and a meeting for final organization will be held at New Corner next week.

Anderson "Comps" May Strike. Special to the Indianapolis Journal. ANDERSON, Ind., Sept. 20.-The Typo graphical Union and the Bulletin company of this city, are stirring up no end of trouble among the union printers of Anderson. The trouble arose over the purchase of a type-setting machine by the Bulletin company, which will result in the dismissal, so it is claimed, of several union printers. President Prescott, of the International Typographical Union, was in the city yesterday endeavoring to adjust matters, but left without accomplishing anything. It is reported here this afternoon that Prescott will return to-morrow, and a walk-out of printers is expected. Docket Contains 1,000 Cases. Special to the Indianapolis Journal. ANDERSON, Ind., Sept. 20 .- The grand jury of the Madison -Circuit Court adjourned to-day, returning twenty true bills. The court record last term, in criminal cases, exceeded anything ever heard of in this section of the State. Madison county sent more convicts to the penitentiary than any other in the State. Harry Rogers, Charles Harper, Frederick St. Clair, Willlam Bengamon, H. Benjamin, John Dick-son, William Reed and Harry Davis will be tried for burglary and John Oats for an attempt to murder. The court docket contains nearly a thousand cases. Alexandria Attorney Horsewhipped. ANDERSON, Ind., Sept. 20.-Joseph Draper, a well-to-do farmer who resides near Alexandria, and who is well advanced in years, administered a horse-whipping to Ed Hall, a young Alexandria attorney, yesterday. Young Hall figured as the attorney in a $3,000 damage suit against Draper The farmer was invited to the office of the attorney, but met the latter on the street. After passing a few words the old farmer took a buggy whip from his buggy and wore it out on the lawyer. The suit against Draper is still pending. I. U. Enrollment of 500. Special to the Indianapolis Journal. BLOOMINGTON, Ind., Sept. 20.-Indiana University has opened for the fall term with the most flattering prospects in the history of the institution, the enrollment the second day numbering 551, as against 500 this time a year ago. The attendance will, of course, be largely increased within the next few days, and President Swain believes the total attendance wis year will

A WORK OF EXTERMINATION.

How Fur-learing Animals and Fish Are Descroyed in Alaska.

DENVER, Col., Sept. 20 .- Joseph Murray, fish commissioner for Alaska, who has just returned from a trip to that country with Assistant Secretary Hamlin, of the Treasury Department, said in an interview today: "Unless some steps are taken there will shortly be no fur-bearing animals in Alaska. The adventurers who flock in there are rapidly exterminating the animal and the companies who are canning salmon are no better. The laws need enforcement, and the government should bave plenty of agents to see that they are enforced. Fox skins range in value from .$10 to $20. A party goes on an island with a supply of strychnine balt poisoned and the foxes eat it. They are skinned and a stake is made. The carcases are eaten by crows and the birds die. Foxes that missed the poisoned bait eat the poisoned birds and in a short time there is not a fox or the island. The seal fisheries are fast playing out. Five years ago there was no trouble in getting 100,000 skins. This year, though allowed to take 20,000, the company only got about 16,000. The salmon fishers spread their nets in the mouths of rivers up which the fish endeavor to ascend in or-der to spawn. Every one is taken out, and as a result there are no young fish. Unless something is done Alaska, instead of being a source of revenue to the government, wil be unable to support even its native popula-

Occasional Correspondence of the Journal. GREELEY, Col., Sept. 18.-Colorado is upon the threshold of the most important political campaign in her history-a campaign the results of which will determine whether or not the State; with all its vast and varied resources, will arise from her present lethargy or continue in a state of business depression and uncertainty for another two years. The issues confronting the people of the silver State are not many, but they are of serious importance to every man who has a dollar invested within her limits. The political fight is between the Republicans and Populists, with the Populists in full control of all the pie counters and machinery, and that they are making good use of them is a self-evident fact. Questions national in their character have been eliminated from the present contest and the fight has narrowed down to one of good, stable government for the State. The Republicans and the conservative business element of all parties are making their campaign in favor of good government, and cite the glaring violations of law on the part of Governor Walte and his followers as the basis of their fight. On the other hand Waite and his party, while admitting that grievous mistakes have been made in administering the affairs of the State, justify themselves by declaring that these things shall not occur again. But the business men of the State who have large capital at stake do not feel disposed to give them another trial.

In spite of the opposition of the brainiest and best men in the Populist party, including Mr. Patterson, editor of the Rocky Mountain News, the leading Populist organ of the State, Governor Davis H. Waite was renominated by the Pueblo convention and again the leader of the party he more than any other man has created. POPULIST WAITE.

Waite is a typical Populist. He hails from Kansas, the Midway Plaisance of the country, and the home of political freaks. He has certain habits of character that while sadly misdirected, are to be admired Unknown to politics up to the time of his nomination for Governor, two years ago, he is now a national character, but he makes the sad mistake of believing that notoriety is fame. His sanguinary utterances on the repeal of the Sherman law are well remembered. It was his "blood to the bridles" declaration, as much as anything else, which brought him before the country. And for speeches of this character and for the stand he has taken in the labor troubles in his State, the Populists, that is, those who are Populists because they cannot be anything else, regard him as a great man. But not so with the great mass of the people. Every one outside the Populist party looks upon him as a veritable Old Man of the Sea, and Colorado as his Sinbad, who is lustily crying for a rest from carrying such a mighty load. rest from carrying such a mighty As a matter of fact, under the Waite regime, the business interests of Colorado have suffered terribly. Taking hold of government with a healthy surplus hand, the Populists have depleted treasury and created a debt of huge proportions. The value of property in the cities has greatly decreased, capital has withdrawn from the State, business has suffered, labor is unemployed, and a state of general depression is manifest everywhere save in the rich agricultural portions. However, the Populist party is a calamity organization. It thrives on business reverses and crop failures. LOOKING TO THE WOMEN. The Republicans held their convention the 12th inst., and nominated a splendid ticket-one that commands the respect and support of the agriculturists and business men alike, and its election is confidently predicted. This fall, for the first time at a general election, the women of the State will walk up to the polls and vote their sentiments. This is a factor in the campaign that, I believe, will accrue to the benefit of the Republicans. In the mining camps, the Populist strongholds, the women are not numerous, while in the cities and agricultural portions of the the majority, the women are almost equal in numbers to the men, and this is a straw showing which way the wind is blowing. Another thing, the inhabitants of the slums are not registering; out of three thousand fallen women in Denver alone but a small per cent. have registered, and this is taken as another indication that the best element wemen of Colorado will vote, w the disreputable class will remain away from the polls. This being true, the votes of the virtuous women of the State are not to be feared by the Republicans. The women can be trusted to vote right With a Republican administration for the next two years Colorado would regain her lost prestige and take rapid strides towards a glorious future. No single industry in Colorado is more firmly established than that of agriculture. For the past ten years the products of her farms have equaled those of her mines. The soil and climate are exceedingly favorable for producing prolifically all the grains, grasses, fruits and vegetables that grow in the temperate zone, and the water supply is adequate for irrigation purposes. In addition, the mining regions furnish a home cash market for all farm products. With the exception of potatoes and wheat there has never been a surplus of the products of agriculture. FARMING BY IRRIGATION. The 12,000 miles of irrigation ditches in the State render available five million acres of land, of which over two million acres are already under cultivation. Of course the agricultural section follows the valleys and is well defined. The Platte and Cache la Poudre valleys are the oldest, and naturally, therefore, the most cultivated portion of the State. The Arkansas and San Luis valleys are capable of wonderful productiveness. The valleys of the Grand, Gunnison and Uncompaghre rivers excel in horticultural products and are also famous for their farms. Montezuma and other valleys of the Animas, Dolores, White and Yampa are newer and more sparsely settled regions, but offer special inducements to farmers. The farmers of Colorado have learned by experience the superior advantages of irrigation. The farmers of the East depend on an uncertain rainfall and often lose their crops from drought, while the farmers of the silver State regulate the they must be in the poorhouse by this time. By the way, do you know where I supply of water to the requirements of their various crops, enabling them to advance or retard their ripening period. The Farmer Wayback-'Tan't much of a job want a man to help me move the pig pen system of irrigation not only insures an out a little so as to make room for a side increased yield, but also a never-failing harvest. The plan and process is simple. A canal is constructed; from it smaller ditches, called laterals. are run to each field. Furrows are plowed DES MOINES, Ia., Sept. 20 .- The heavon the land through which the water flows, iest rainstorm of the season fell here this moistening it to any degree necessary. The evening, accompanied with hail. One and fifty-two hundredth inches feli in fifteen cost of irrigation for a season ranges from $1 to $1.20 an acre, but this outlay, in adminutes' time, flooding the streets of the dition to the certainty of return, is quite city. The sewers were unable to carry justified by the encichment of the soil. The valley of the Rio Grande in New Mexico off the water and many cellars were filled Considerable damage to windows was done has been irrigated for over 250 years, and is as productive to-day as ever. The construction of a ditch always adds at least $10 per acre to the value of the land. CROPS AND MARKETS

The crops raised on the irrigated farms of Colorado, both as to quality and quantity, are the best possible vindication of the superiority of agriculture by irrigation over any system dependent on the rainfall. The official average of wheat is twenty-three bushels per acre, and careful farming never fails to produce from thirty to forty bushels per acre. Its quality is unsurpassed in the world. Oats and Senator Voorhess is a goldbug in Wash-agton and a free-coinage man in Indiana. barley yield from thirty-five to fifty bush-

Corn is not quite so prolific a crop, owing to the cool nights, although excellent yields are obtained, particularly in the lower Arkansas valley. Potatoes yield from one hundred to four hundred bushels per acre, and are an exceedingly profitable crop.

Alfalfa yields from three to six tons per acre, and is the favorite forage crop. Clover yields three tons an acre, and timothy a trifle less. All kinds of vegetables grow to an enor-mous size and yield astonishing results. Dairy farming is especially profitable, the local demand for butter never yet having been met. The same is true of poultry and eggs, and honey, and ail similar products, And there is no place on the continent where what is known as "truck farming" is more profitable, or offers greater induce. ment for success than in Colorado.

Combining the most fertile soils, the most favorable of climatic conditions, and the certainty of a crop each year under an advantageous and growing system of irriga-tion, with a home cash market, the splendid future of Colorado agriculture can scarcely be estimated in view of the variety and extent of the industries of the State, and their growing demands for the products of the farm. The mining of the precious metals, and of coal and iron, the quarrying of stone and marble, the smelting of ores, the manwhich Colorado so plentifully abounds, will give employment to thousands of men, all of whom must live upon the products of the soil. Herein is the assurance of the permanent prosperity of Colorado agriculture-a market not thousands of miles away, not in Europe, but at its very door, where miners are delving, where the factories are busy, where the smelters are pouring forth their streams of gold and silver, and where the commercial activity of hundreds of towns and cities attest the agricultural possibilities of the State. Nowhere within the confines of the Republic is there a truer paradise for farmers, or more certain rewards for the intelligent pursuit of agriculture than exist within the boundaries and among the fertile valleys of the Centennial State.

All these things go to make Colorado great, and with a Republican administration of State affairs and an assurance of stable government, the Silver State will arise and go forward to the music of advancing civilization.

NEED OF MISSIONARIES. The Republican candidate for Governor, Edward W. McIntyre, is a farmer, and a man who stands high in the estimation of his countrymen. His running mate, Mr. Brush, of Greeley, candidate for Lieutenant Governor, is a pioneer in Colorado, and ugderstands its needs as well as any man in the State. If these two men are elected this fall Colorado's future is assured. Speaking of the politics of the State, it . has been a surprise to me that the Republicans have succeeded as well as they have, While able speakers are sent to Maine, Vermont and other sure Republican States, the silver States are left to take care of themselves as best they can. The Republicans of Colorado are equal to the Republicans of Indiana and Kentucky so far as fighting qualities are concerned, but they cannot overcome the flesh and the devil at all times. They are compelled to contest every inch of ground with all the "Isms" known to the politics of the present century, but still they do not falter in their fidelity to their party. However, if a few Republican missionaries, armed with the gospel of good government and better times, would come to Colorado and preach the doctrine of Republicanism, protection and sound money, there would be no trouble in carrying the State at every elecevery silver-producing State. The people, Republicans, Populists and Democrats, are in favor of free silver. On this point all are agreed. Therefore, if the Republican party, as a national organization, does not take some action on the question and put forth some effort to reclaim its Western followers from the free-silver idols, the cause in those States is hopeless. I am not an alarmist, but my stay in Colorado and my contact with the leading Republicans of the silver States has convinced me that the Republican party has got to turn its attenion to the West if it hopes to succeed in 1896. It is and has been the custom of the Republicans to send their ablest speakers to Maine, Vermont and other sure Republican Eastern States during every campaign, while the Western States have been sadly neglected. This is being done to-day, and, if the custom is to obtain, will be done again in 1896. If things go on in this line, now make the prediction that the election of the next President will be thrown into the House. The result of such a thing cannot be foreseen to-day, but it is probable, if the free-silver ideas in the West are not modified by Republican missionaries, that the Populists will have the balance of power, and that means, if their votes in the last session of Congress are to be taken as a criterion, that they will vote for a Democratic President. The Republican managers should look this question squarely in the face and act as the requirements of the hour demand.

A. M. WILLOUGHBY Halford's Bible Class.

W. E. Curtis's Omaha Letter in Chicago Speaking of churches reminds me that Elijah Halford's Bible class has become one of the great institutions of the town. When he lived in Indianapolis and edited the Journal for the Hon. John C. New, Lije had a Bible class in the Methodist average attendance at morning service rainy Sundays, or during the hot weather, when the brethren didn't feel well enough to go to church, they could always be depended upon to turn up after the bene-diction for Sunday school and listen to Lije Halford expound the Scriptures, as he could do better than any preacher or laybecause he was so burdened w a brand-new major and pr went to Washington that Pint ntegrated and Lije didn't start one there of State. But when he went to Omaha as army the first thing he did after getting measured for his uniform and unpackage his trunk was to organize a class in First Methodist Church that isn't equaled for numbers and general intelligence-except perhaps by the one Mr. Wanamaker conducts in Philadelphia-in the whole land. There are 235 members-all men-and some of the wisest and most learned of the population answer "here" as Lije calls the roll every Sunday morning. No fatigue or business engagements, no storm or cold or heat, can keep them away, for when Lije Halford commences to expound Scripture it is worth going a long journey to hear him talk.
